Barter and Exchange.

By JANE LEE.
Copyrighted, 1908, by P. C. Eastment.

The evening paper contained very little news. Evening papers were getting stupid and dry—at least so thought Ethel Yorke as she turned over one page after the other in hopes of finding an item of some interest.

Almlessly her glance wandered from one sheet to another, and her attention was finally attracted to the "exchange" column. Only one ad. seemed to interest her. She read it to the end, mused to herself, "I wonder," then read it again aloud to herself to see if it sounded the least bit plausible.

"Will exchange a first class typewriter in A1 condition for genuine antiques. Fakirs need not apply. J. B. G., Box 411."

"Antiques!" commented Ethel to herself. "Well, we're strong on antiques—have everything from the human to still life, from dear old Aunt Cornelia to the pen used in signing the Declaration of Independence. Then, again, Aunt Cornelia is worth more than a secondhand typewriter, and the pen is probably not worth the bell on the old machine. Let me think."

Aunt Cornelia appeared at the doorway as if in answer to the suggestion. "Whom are you talking to, Ethel?" she asked as she glanced around the apparently empty room. "It seems to be a very one-sided conversation, for I hear only your own voice," she added.

"Auntie, dear, I am conversing with a very bright young person of my acquaintance—none other than yours truly, Ethel Yorke," said Ethel, with a sweeping bow. "And, I want a typewriter, and—"

"I know you do, dearie, but talking to yourself won't get one." "Auntie, I'm not fooling. I want a typewriter, and I'm going to get one. Behold!" said Ethel as she presented Aunt Cornelia with the ad. to read.

The old lady read it carefully, glanced at Ethel, then said: "Well, dearie, there is the old melodeon. That is a true antique. Your Grandfather Parker gave that to your grandmother for a wedding present. It is all carved by hand and inlaid with teakwood."

Aunt Cornelia sighed as she went on. "I suppose if you want to learn to be a stenographer and go out in the workaday world you must have a typewriter on which to learn, and I guess you had better offer the dear old melodeon in exchange."

The ad. was duly answered, and within forty-eight hours a prompt reply was received saying that the owner of the typewriter would call that evening to inspect the so called antique.

Ethel answered the doorbell of the little apartment that evening, for the household boasted of no maid since the loss of their little fortune. A tall, smartly dressed man entered and was ushered into the sitting room, followed by Ethel.

"Are you the young lady who wants a typewriter?" he asked as he took in the graceful lines of her well rounded figure, her mass of red brown hair and the even contour of her beautiful face.

"Yes," she replied as she offered him a chair. "I want to become an expert typist, and I was attracted by your ad. Here is the melodeon, if you want to look it over," and she walked across the room and lighted another gas jet to exhibit her heirloom to better advantage. The man followed in silence.

"It's a really, truly antique," said Ethel. "I'm not a fakir such as you suggest in your ad."

The young man walked up to the beautiful old melodeon, a priceless treasure to one whose taste is good. For the moment he seemed lost in his admiration of the delicate workmanship, the beautifully tinted woods, and he sat down before it, dreaming. The girl looked at the man as if upon the figure in a picture. The lights fell up on him as he sat before the instrument, and she wondered why he did not speak. Maybe, after all, the old thing was worth nothing.

Howard Phillips, man of leisure and collector of antiques, turned to his companion, hardly knowing which he admired most, the inanimate wooden treasure or the beautiful girl.

"If acceptable to you, Miss Yorke, I will take the melodeon, giving you in exchange the typewriter and a bonus of $50," he finally said. "The instrument is a beauty and a very rare specimen," he added.

The final arrangements were completed, and the next day found Ethel in possession of a typewriter and Phillips with the melodeon. Phillips went on with his search for antiques, but somehow he felt that the greatest treasure on which his eyes had rested in months—aye, even years—was the girl whose face seemed to haunt his dreams.

A terrific snow and hail storm kept him indoors some weeks after the purchase, and Phillips sat down before the instrument to see what sort of music it would produce. His fingers ran over the keys, but no sound came forth. He peddled with greater force, yet silence was his only reward.

Something was wrong within, and his left fingers went to work in the mechanism, and after several minutes' search he was rewarded by finding a package pressed against the key.

The package was apparently a wad of old papers; but, with the true instinct of the collector, Phillips began to undo the yards and yards of twine about the long bundle. It was speechless. Before him lay a piece of Miss, money that was not his but any other

AN ISLAND IN THE AIR.

One of the Wonders of Prehistoric Pueblo Architecture.

Three miles south of the Mesa Encantada, in Mexico, is a splendid specimen of fantastic erosion—an "island" in the air, a rock with overhanging sides nearly 400 feet high, seventy acres in area on the fairly level top, fluted with countless great bays, notched with dizzy chasms. The greater part of the island overhangs the sea like a huge mushroom, and on the top stands a town which for artistic charm, ethnological interest and romantic history has no peer.

This little town of Anacoma is one of the most perfect types of the prehistoric Pueblo architecture. Most of the houses remain of the type invented when every house must be a fort. One climbed a ladder to his first roof and pulled up the ladder at night, living on the second and third floors and using the ground floor as a cellar. Against enemies armed only with bows and arrows this was a fair defense. Comfort had to be sacrificed to safety. Nothing except the eagle sought such inaccessible eyries as these victims of their own civilization.

Because they were farmers instead of freebooters, because they had homes instead of being vagrants, they were easy to find, and they were the prey of a hundred nomad tribes. With inconceivable labor this island town in the air was built and fortified. It was reached only by a mere trail of toe holes up the stem of the "mushroom." The age of the island is not known, except that it was already old in 1540, when the first explorer visited it and wrote an account of its wonders.

No Need of Them Some Day. At a monthly examination a boy of fourteen failed to spell 15 per cent of his words correctly. The tutor told him this was surprising and must not happen again. The boy replied that he thought he had done pretty well on the whole.

"You must study those words over and over again," replied the tutor. "This must not occur at any future time. Study them so that you can remember them forever."

The boy stood still in silent contemplation for a few moments and then remarked: "I was just thinking that I wouldn't live that long."—Harper's Weekly.

Private Theatricals. In some private theatricals a fugitive from justice was supposed to escape from his pursuers by concealing himself under a table. The table was small, and the terrified fugitive was somewhat lengthy.

The commander of the pursuing party rushed on the stage and fell over the legs of the man he was searching for. Picking himself up and ludicrously rubbing his shins, he convulsed the audience by exclaiming in true dramatic style:

"Ha, ha! The dastardly villain has eluded us again!"—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Bobby's Reason. Little Bobby was saying his prayers at his mother's knee, but so rapidly that she asked him why he did not speak more slowly.

"Because, you know," he replied, "it would keep all the other children waiting."—Lippincott's.

Pointed. Lady (at railway station, to porter)—Now, porter, are you sure I have all my luggage in the train? Porter—Yes, ma'am. Lady—Nothing left behind? Porter—Nothin', ma'am—not even a copper, ma'am!—London Scraps.

It is the mind that maketh good or ill, that maketh wretchedness or happiness, rich or poor.

Women Who Wear Well. It is astonishing how great a change a few years of married life often make in the appearance and disposition of many women. The freshness, the charm, the brilliance vanish like the bloom from a peach which is rudely handled. The matron is a dim shadow, a faint echo of the charming maiden. There are two reasons for this change, ignorance and neglect. Few young women appreciate the shock to the system through the change which comes with marriage and motherhood. Many neglect to deal with the unpleasant pelvic drains and weaknesses which too often come with marriage and motherhood, not understanding that this secret drain is robbing the cheek of its freshness and the form of its fairness.

As surely as the general health suffers when there is derangement of the health of the delicate womanly organs, so surely when these organs are established in health the face and form at once witness to the fact in beautiful combinations. Nearly a million women have found health and happiness in the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It makes weak women strong and sick women well. Ingredients on label—contains no alcohol or harmful habit-forming drugs. Made wholly of those native American medicinal roots most highly recommended by leading medical authorities of all the several schools of practice for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments.

For nursing mothers, or for those broken-down in health by too frequent bearing of children, also for the expectant mothers. To prepare the system for the coming of baby and making its advent easy and almost painless, there is no medicine quite so good as "Favorite Prescription." It can do no harm in any condition of the system. It is a most potent invigorating tonic and strengthening nerve tonic, adapted to woman's delicate system by a physician of large experience in the treatment of woman's peculiar ailments.

Teachers' Institutes.

THE annual session of the Teachers' Institute lends zest to our educational affairs and has great possibilities for the hardening out and perfecting of our school work. Its influence precludes all possibility of stagnation and the discussions and ideas brought out by the coming together of the teachers makes its function a vital one affecting as it does the spirit of the work which moulds the coming citizens and future mothers of the nation. The school room atmosphere is colored principally by the teacher and his or her personality. Ideas and ideals are the source of the impressions and many of the impulses of our children. We can therefore not give too much attention to encouraging the right kind of men and women to take up and continue in the profession and to make all phases of educational work such as institutes of the greatest account to them. The possibilities in the latter could be bettered by taking educational affairs more out of politics. The teacher needs and is entitled to the most brilliant and scholarly talks and advice procurable and aside from technical brightening up the pedagogy should have the benefit of discussions of great social problems by practical workers and students of affairs. We want more than the book learning requirement which is gleaned in the training schools for teachers. We want personality in the guardians of our school children and breadth of idea and moral tone. There are many such teachers in the profession today and contact with them is another advantage to be derived at institutes where all come together for mutual good and improvement.

Sonoma Valley Has Its Mineral Springs, too.

WE rise to remark that Sonoma Valley was entitled to mention in the recent editorial of the Chronicle wherein California mineral springs were extolled and many less famous than our own spoken of. The gist of the article was to the effect that Admiral Evans' presence and improvement at a California mineral spring will be a world-wide advertisement for our resorts and that the demand for the bottled products of our liquid panacea will increase accordingly. We are glad of these predictions and do believe that the merits of California mineral water is being realized with great rapidity. We are fortunate to possess in Sonoma Valley springs of such splendid properties and now that the waters are being bottled and shipped out and it is not necessary for Mahomet to come to the mountain, we are going to get a reputation for this splendid natural product of our sulphur springs. It is being brought about through the enterprise of Mr. John Kelly of Boyes' water fame and Mr. Theodore Richards of the celebrated waters of Agua Caliente Springs, both of whom should not be underestimated for the work they are doing in revealing that Sonoma is peer in mineral waters by putting the article so energetically on the market.

Style---A Prediction.

The flowers that bloom in the spring, tra la la,
Seem made, you'll admit, just for hats;
Why, on Easter the bonnets were lovely,
They talk about hard times, oh rats.

Why, the ladies were gayer than ever,
Getting broad in their ideas 'tis plain;
Why that clever new "Merry Widow,"
Covers every defect of the brain.

What matter if style seems absurd, sir,
If women are frivolous, vain;
Remember the old, old adage
There'll yet be a turn in the lane.

Perhaps the day's not far distant
When our haters will think it correct
To turn out the "Merry Widower,"
To be worn by the most select.

Then we'll all go to church Easter morning,
But there's one thing--divines must fix that--
When a fellow buys this Easter bonnet,
He's excused from removing his hat.

THE fact that the small pox scare in Vallejo has already cost that town $6,000 should be a warning to other municipalities which have dubious sanitation. Every taxpayer should advocate a good sewer system for this place, realizing that in case of the spread of a contagious disease more money will come out of his pocket and out of the city treasury than if he were to incur a timely debt by bonding and share it with future generations.

PETALUMA and Napa are scrapping over the shoulders of two contemporary editors and incidentally over the rivers which each possess. We will next expect to hear that each tried to get the fleet to weigh anchor in their wondrous harbors and hence the rivalry.

To Judge Pryor, late of the Sausalito News, we extend congratulations on his reentering the ranks and becoming interested in the Pasadena Daily News. Journalism cannot afford to do without such newspaper men as Pryor.

EMPLOYEES of the Napa Asylum can now marry and still hold their positions, which goes to prove that it must have been demonstrated that marriage does not really result in incompetence.

WE congratulate the Sebastopol Times on its increased size and the many compliments meted out to its editor who was reared to the "profess" in this office.

A HAND AT WHIST.

The Story of the Result Put Bridge Yarns in the Fish Class.

At an uptown bridge whist party a man member told this story while the company was taking a bite between rubbers: "I had heard of a man holding a complete suit, but I never saw it until last week. I was invited to play at Dr. Blank's home, and it was my deal at the start of the second rubber. I looked at my cards and could hardly believe my eyes. There were thirteen cards all of the same suit. 'Gentlemen,' said I, 'this is embarrassing. I hate to make the trump.'"

"Why?" was asked.

"Well," said I, "if I were playing with people who knew me less well I would dislike to show my hand."

"Now, after all this fuss, what do you make it?"

"Hearts," said I.

"Quick as a flash the man at my left said, 'I double,' and then I realized that in my excitement I mislaid my hand--I had all diamonds. They made a grand slam and said a few things to me also."

The day after he had told the story the man received a postal card on which this was written:

"The old rule that an affidavit should go with every fish story and a peepin' tablet with every piece of amateur mince pie has been changed to include bridge whist stories in the fish class," New York Tribune.

A Heavy Load to Carry

"ALL IS WELL THAT ENDS WELL."

Along with dyspepsia comes nervousness and general ill-health. Why? Because a disordered stomach does not permit the food to be properly digested, and its products assimilated by the system. On the other hand the blood is charged with poisons which come from this disordered digestion and the nerves are not fed on good, red blood, and we see symptoms of nervousness, sleeplessness and general breakdown. It is not head work that does it, but poor stomach work.

With poor, thin blood the body is not protected against the attack of germs of grip, bronchitis and consumption. Fortify the body at once with Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery--a rare combination of native medicinal roots without a particle of alcohol or dangerous drugs.

No man is stronger than his stomach. Let the greatest athlete have dyspepsia and his muscles would soon fail. Physical strength is derived from food. If a man has insufficient food he loses strength. If he has no food he dies. Food is converted into nutrition through the stomach and bowels. It depends on the strength of the stomach to what extent food eaten is digested and assimilated. People can die of starvation who have abundant food to eat, when the stomach and its associate organs of digestion and nutrition do not perform their duty. Thus the stomach is really the vital organ of the body. If the stomach is "weak" the body will be weak also, because it is upon the stomach the

We have been selecting, blending, and roasting coffee for over half a century.

Folger's Golden Gate is the result of our long coffee experience. We cannot improve it. Could not make it better if we tried. No one knows how to blend it but ourselves. Folger's Golden Gate is fragrant--delicious.

Official Paper of Sonoma.

Open Season for Trout.

The open season for trout commences next Friday. Local fishermen do not take kindly to the law enacted at the last session of the Legislature protecting fish and game and particularly that part of it which extended the close season for trout from April 1st to May 1st. This part of the law, while it may be very good for some portions of the State, deprives the anglers in Sonoma valley streams of their usual sport in hooking the fish. For the most part the trout streams in this section go dry by May 1st and the trout which run up the streams from salt water during the winter and early spring freshets become land-bound and are not caught by anglers during the particularly dry spring like the present, miserably perish by the thousands.

This being the case, it is safe to predict that there is little sport ahead for anglers this season in this section, and most of the fishing will have to be confined to Sonoma creek, which never goes dry, but which, on the other hand, is open all the year round to that greatest of all trout-catchers, the voracious carp.

The Republican Primary Election

The election for delegates to the Republican County Convention will be held throughout the county next Tuesday. Three delegates to the convention will be chosen from this place, two from Agua Caliente, three from Glen Ellen, and two from San Luis. These will make up the Sonoma Valley delegation in the convention, which will be composed of 154 members.

No particular form of ballot is prescribed and the tickets can be printed or written.

The convention to which the delegates will be sent will meet in Santa Rosa on Tuesday, May 5th, and will elect delegates to the Republican State and district conventions to be held in Sacramento on May 14th. The delegates to the County Convention will also appoint or elect a County Central Committee to conduct the political campaign next fall.

Brief Mention.

Daunt does the only reliable watch repairing.

There was a slight frost Wednesday morning but it did no damage.

There will be a fine fruit and grape crop in this valley this season.

Read what Willie, the office boy, has to say in to-day's Index-Tribune.

Any repair work left at Mrs. Lutgen's will receive prompt attention by Daunt.

Now is the time to lay concrete sidewalks. See Trudgen, the stone mason, about it.

The second installment of State and county taxes become delinquent next Monday.

Death of an Infant.

Leah, the nine-months-old baby girl of Mr. and Mrs. J. Benone of the New Toscano and Garibaldi House, died at an early hour last Sunday morning of pneumonia. The funeral was held Tuesday from the home of the parents. There were services in St. Francis church after which the remains were laid tenderly to rest in the quaint little churchyard of the Catholic faith in this place.

Land Contest.

The contest instituted in the U. S. Land Office at Oakland by Warren E. Hunt against Henry F. Tibb to decide the right to a pre-emption claim located in the mountains northeast of Agua Caliente, came up for a hearing before County Clerk Wright in Santa Rosa on Wednesday. After taking the testimony in the case the County Clerk forwarded his report to the officials of the land office.
